SERMONS ON SUNDAY

Three Notable Ones Were Delivered.

ABBOTT AT FIRST CHURCH

Great Audience Gathers to Hear the Distinguished New York Minister. Rev. W. R. Moody to Man.

Three notable sermons, delivered by dis tinguished out-of-town ministers, who have been in attendance upon the Education Conference, were preached in Rich

DR. ABBOTT'S SERMON. Hundreds of people were turned from the doors of the First Baptist Church, where, in the morning, preached the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of the Outlook, the most widely known and influentia religious weekly in the world. On the inside the place was packed to a jam. Every seat in the main auditorium was The galleries were filled from end to end with eager auditors, not one of whom left the church until the service of whom left the church until the service was over. The inclemency of the weather had absolutely no effect upon the attendance. It is estimated that fully fittern hundred people were packed into the church. Many members of the Legislature and other prominent persons were

Abbott preached a simple but Dr. Abbott preached a simple but strong and elequent gospol sermin, his text being Luke itid! "For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savlour, which is Messiah, the Lord."

One of the ohief points made by Dr. One of the chief points made by Dr. Abbott in discussing the difference between the Christian religion and other religions is that Christianity alone offers hope for the future and demonstrates its practical adaptability to human needs. Brief reference was made by Dr. Abbott to the good which has eprung from the Christian religion. At the dawn of the Christian era half the population of Rome were slaves; in Christian countries to-day slavery does not exist. The religion of Christ has stricken the shackles from the captiv. War is passing from to-day slavery does at.

gion of Christ has stricken the shackles from the captiv. War is passing from the earth, said Dr. Abbott, who, in this sonnection, referred to the $1,500,000 gift of Andrew Carnegis for the erection of, a peace conference palace at The Hague. Education, too, is one of the great blessings that have flowed from Christianity. One of the festures of the service was called by Mrs. W. R. Moody, wife of W.

MR. MOODY TO MEN.

At the Y. M. C. A. in the afternoon the Rev. William R. Moody, son of the late Dwight L. Moody, preached to a large ice of men on a text from St. Paul's audience of men on a text from 8t. Paul's spistic to the Corinthians:

"While we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are pot seen, for the things which are seen are temporal, and the things which are not seen are eternal."

The sermon is a strong and eloquent one and created a great impression. The entire spirit of it is summed up in the following paragraph, with which Mr. Moody closed:
"Young men, this afternoon your Lord

"Young men, this afternoon your Lord "Young men, this afternoon your Lord comes and calls us away from the things that are simply temporal. Think for one minute what makes life worth living, think what makes life a success. Take out of life joy, peace and rest, and you will have suicide. You set your heart and affections on anything down here and it is only a question of time before a disappointment comes. Let us raise and it is only a question of time before a disappointment comes. Let us raise yer eyes, let us look out, and let us have a broader vision and see the things that are unseen. There is no disappointment there; there is no failure there."

DR. BURWELL SPEAKS.

Two exceptionally fine sermons were preached here Sunday by the Rev. Dr. David James Burwell, the distinguished pastor of the Mable Collegiate Church, of New York city.

The orator for the occasion was the pastor of the church, the Rev. George Spooner, who preached a powerful ser-mon from the text 1 Corinthians, 16:18

Spooner, who preached a powerful sermon from the text 1 Corinthians, 16:13:

"Quit You Like Men." The sermon was a strong and able one and it oreated a great impression,

After refgering to manhood and the world's call for it in its hours of need, Mr. Spooner applied the text under several different heads. 1 Quit you like men in the realm of citizenship. There are duties that a man owes the State, as well as the family, and an easy acquiesence in political wrong; an idle indifference to robbery of men's rights is not quitting oneself like a man, but is an exhibition of cringing cowardice. When I say 'men robbed of their rights," I do not mean serfs and field-hands, enfranchised through the power of bayonets, the blackest crime of American civilization, a burden and incubus borne in patience by Southern chivairy for forty long years, but I mean men whose rights are based on intelligence and manhood the crowning marks of Anglo-Baxon supremacy and the sheet anchor of this sunny Southland's hope. The "demagogue" and the "heeler," and the "ward politican," and the "bemorant for revenue only," have played ontirely too prominent a part in the affairs of the State. In the dawning light of a new era and a new century, I beg you "Quit you like men in helping to relegate them to the rear. By manily conduct and broad patriotism, help establish a civic righteousness that is above reproach and beyond the suspicion of dishonesty.

Again, "Quit you like men in friendship, love and truth," the motto of your Order, in your dealings with one another, defend your brother's name. It is worth more to him and more to human society than all the gold of Ophir. Slander is murder of one's reputation, as driving the stitetio in the back is murder before the law. Do not leave the personal equation out of your oreed, looking upon your motto as a good thing for general guidance, but not for your govornment. Like the Roman solder at the gates of Porppell, stand sentinel on the outposts of your tenets and guard them with vigliant eye and puisi of your tenets and guard them with visilant eye and pulsing heart and sensitive conscience, a solderly solder, a manly man.

Again, to those of you who are Christions, "Quit you like men" by walking in the sunshine of your Father's smile. Oh, the weakness of man's faith in a conquering Christ, the lack of courage when assailed by error. Men, great hig overgrown Christian men, doing the stunts of a scared child in a presence of opposition. Remember who is on your side, and what victory means. All that a plenipotent God has promised.

Again. If you are not a Christian, I apply the text to you by saying, "Quit you like men" in confession of sins and acknowledgement of error. A manly man admits his wrong and apologizes, and that is just what God demands before you can get into the Celestial Lodge solve, where shining angels are "outside sentinols" and luring seraphs "veil their faces" as they bow before His throne.

If I am correctly informed, this is the eighty-fourth anniversary of the establishment of your Order in America, in these eighty-four years, many struggles have been endured, many battles fought and many victories won. The principles of your Order have driven back opposition. Lodge after lodge has been instituted, until to-day 12,000 lodges are celebrating the date of their mother's birth, and a million and a half members are wearing the waystle links.

One hundred and eighty-five thousand members were added to your roil last your; $1,000,000 were expended in relief; $20,000,000 are held as invested funds, and in the eighty-four years of your cvisience $2,000,000 has been distributed to beneficiaries. A record that any organization might well be proud of After a tribute to "the Rebekah's' the ladies' cognate organization, the sermon mas closed by an appeal to obey the text, not upon the ground of deliars and cents, nor the ground of encouragement and sympathy, but upon the ground of immortality. Life's record is to be respected by the All-Wies Judge. Make it a manly record, based on faith in a resurrote will not be a candidate for re-election. This information is given authoritatively in a signed statement just issued by Mr. Donahoe. Here is his statement, tively in a signed statement just issued by Mr. Donahoe. Here is his statement, giving his reason for this determination: To the Editor of The Times-Dispatch:

Sir,—An article appeared in your issue of yesterday under the caption of "The Status of the Senate," in which reference was made to the Senators whose terms are about to expire. It is stated in one paragraph that I, along with others, whose names are mentioned, will be a candidate for re-election and in another that "Senator Donahoe's renomination is practically assured."

While it is true that I have received voluntary assurances of support from all parts of my district, and, doubtiess, would have no opposition should I desire to return, I wish to say the after the most mature consideration. I have decided to decline re-election. I could not serve another term without serious detriment to my private interests. The number of sensions held during the past term have so far exceeded what I anticipated at the tyginning, and have made auch a demand upon my time, that I cannot afford to make further sacrifices in that respect, and shall not, therefore, be a condidate for re-election.

Yery truly, etc.
